Your rights as a limited English speaker

In the United States, there is a law called the Civil Rights Act of 1964 which protects you as a limited English speaking person. The Clinic or hospital where you seek care CANNOT deny services because you do not speak English. You have the right to have the hospital or clinic provide you with an interpreter at no cost to you. An interpreter will help you better explain medical problems and help you understand the treatments to get well.

If you speak some English, you still have the right to an interpreter. If you do not speak English, please show the English side of this card to the hospital or clinic.

If you have problems or questions call the Office for Civil Rights at 1-800-368-1019.
